BY the above Scheme, it's evident, that the Government gives, for the Encouragement of the Adventurers, a Surplus more than the Principal, of 1,370,400 l. --- a Sum never yet given in any preceding Lottery: It's therefore propos'd, viz.

That the Government shall pay no Interest for Blanks or Prizes the first three Years, and shall pay but 5 l. per Cent. per An. Interest, for the remaining Term of 29 Years, or 'till the Principal is paid off.

That all the Blanks and Prizes, that shall fall in Course to be paid [and shall be paid] off the First and Second Year, shall rebate to the Government one Year's Interest, at 5 l. per Cent. per An.

That the 30 Prizes of 1,000 l. each, shall, whenever they come to be paid (in Course) rebate one Year's Interest, at 5 l. per Cent. per An.

That the 30 other great Prizes of 2,000 l. 4,000 l. 6,000 l. 8,000 l. and 12,000 Pounds each, shall, whenever they come to be paid (in Course) rebate two Years Interest, at 5 l. per Cent. per An.

The Times for Payment of the ten Pounds for each Ticket, as also the Discount for prompt Payment, is intirely left and submitted to the Prudence of the Queen and Government; as is also the Method of drawing the said Blanks and Benefits.

However, if it shall be thought fit to continue the usual Method of mixing the Prizes with the Blanks, it is humbly offer'd, in order to satisfy every Adventurer, tho' unfortunate, in what Years he shall be repaid his principal Ten Pounds; That on the 270,000 Papers (stiled Blanks) divided into 16 equal Proportions, be printed or engraven, viz.

16,875 Multiply'd by 16, is 270,000, the Number of the Blanks.

By which Method, the Government will certainly pay 84,375 l. toward the Blanks every Year to those Adventurers, whose Turn it is in Course to receive it.

As to the Payment of the Prizes; it may either be done as in the last Lottery, or by allotting a proportionable Number of each Specie of Benefits to be paid every Year of the Term: Which (setting aside afide the 30 great Prizes, which can't well be compriz'd in this Calculation) will yearly amount to about [400 of 30 l.] 300 of 40 l.] 190 of 50 l.] 38 of 100 l.] 19 of 200 l.] 10 of 300 l.] [4 of 400 l.] 2 of 500 l.] and one of 1000 l.] Agreeably to which, it's propos'd, That the [400 of 30 l.] 300 of 40 l. &c.] that first arise, may be accounted or esteem'd the first Course of Payment; the next [400 of 30 l.] 300 of 40 l. &c.] that arise, shall be accounted the second Course of Payment; and so progressively on, to the Thirty second or last Course of Payment.

The great Prizes being but few in Number, may admit of a second Drawing, to ascertain the Year in which each shall be paid.

If this Scheme has the Honour of a favourable Reception from the Government, to which its humbly offer'd, the Author has a Fund ready to produce to answer the same.

N. B. This Scheme has to recommend it to the Adventurers, an Advance of 662,100 l. more than Mr. Carter's, ^{or any other} and 14,568 more Prizes; as will appear by the subsequent Table of this, compar'd with that.
